Biography of Philip Fluke, pages 870 / 871. History of De Kalb County, Indiana. Inter-State Publishing Company, Chicago, 1885.

Philip Fluke, retired currier and tanner, Auburn, was born in Bedford County, Pa., June 27, 1816, a son of Philip and Mary (Summers) Fluke, who removed to Richland County, Ohio, in the fall of 1816. He was reared and educated in Ohio, remaining there till 1844, when, in November, he moved to Auburn, Ind. His education was received in the public school, and when eighteen years of age he was apprenticed to the currier and tanner's trade, serving three years. He then worked as a journeyman six months at Ashland, Ohio, and then returned home and attended school four months, and in 1838, began in business for himself. In 1841 he sold his business, and in 1844 came to Auburn, and opened a tannery, which he conducted till 1874 when he retired from active business life. When he stated in life his father gave him $500 and forty acres of land; this, added to a small amount he received from his father's estate, has been his only assistance. Possessed of good business management, he made the most of what he had, and has amassed a fortune, having a large landed estate adjacent to Auburn. He was married to Ruth, daughter of Thomas Ford, of Auburn, who died March 25, 1853, leaving one son---Wakeman C., a druggist of Clayton, Mich. Jan. 19, 1857, he married Sarah, daughter of David Thomas, of Richland Township, De Kalb County. She died in Auburn, Jan. 17, 1873. To them were born three children, two of whom are living---Eliza J., wife of S.L. Gibson, and Frank E., at home. Ida May died in April, 1865, aged four months. In politics Mr. Fluke has always been a Democrat. He has served two terms as Trustee of Auburn.

Philip Fluke

Ashland County, Ohio

Philip Fluke was born in the year 1791 in the State of Pennsylvania, Bedford County. He married in or about the year 1810 to Miss Mary Summers. To them were born eleven children, seven sons and four daughters, Henry, born 1811, Lewis, born 1813, Samuel, born 1814; Philip, born 1816; Catharine, born 1819; Jacob, born 1820; David, born 1822, Eliza, born 1825; Lucinda, born 1826; Margaret, born 1829; John, born 1831.

He came to what is now Orange Township, and made permanent settlement immediately in the woods with no traces whatever of civilization. Here he began life in earnest. He immediately set about the erection of a rude log cabin in which to shelter his little family. This done, he at once proceeded to clear up and improve his pioneer home, and by his strong will and earnest determination to conquer, the forest was soon made to give way, and waving fields of grain soon told that his intentions had been fully executed. Here he reared and educated his family, and each year, as he was prospered, he kept constantly adding more acres to his first purchase, until he had accumulated eight hundred broad acres of valuable lands, and as each son left the parental roof, the father presented him with a farm of one hundred acres. Our subject departed this life in the year 1876, surviving his wife but six weeks. This worthy aged couple now lie sleeping side by side in the old St. Like Cemetery, and are deserving of a kind remembrance.

SECOND GENERATION

PHILIP FLUCK, s. of Johannes and Anna Mary ( ) Fluck, of Rockhill Township, Bucks County, b. 1725; d. 1780. mar. BARBARA KERN, dau. of Frederick Kern, of Rockhill Township, Bucks County. b. January 25, 1726; d. May 19, 1806. bur. Tohickon Union Cemetery.

Philip Fluck was born in Germany and emigrated to Pennsylvania with his parents, on the Ship Phoenix from Rotterdam, arriving in Philadelphia, October 20, 1744. His name was written on the Ship's List by a clerk "Frederick(X) Flugh", misspelled by the clerk. He was age 19 years old when he arrived. Looking across the ship lists we find that Frederick Kern and his family arrived in 1747. In 1750 Philip Fluck and his wife brought their first child to the pastor of Tohickon Reformed Church for baptism, being also the church his father-in-law was a member.

Philip Fluck was active in the community and the church, he served for a time as Elder of the Tohickon Reformed Church. His name appears as the collector of funds for the support of the church and the financial records of the years 1768, 1769, and 1770, showing that Pastor J. Christopher Gobrecht received some or all of his salary from the hands of Philip Fluck.

He and his family lived in Hilltown Township, was a farmer, must have self educated himself to a reasonable education for the time, a man esteemed by his neighbors and fellow church members. He and his wife had eleven known children. He died nine years after his father Johannes, and just ten years before his youngest surviving son, Philip.

His Will was probated in Bucks County in the year 1780 and provided that his son, Christian, might buy the farm in Hilltown Township, after the youngest minor child came of age. Elizabeth came "of age" on November 24, 1786 and in 1787 the six children signed a release on the farm in favor of Christian Fluck.

Of the eleven children only seven are mentioned in the Will, therefore, four preceded the father in death, they were Christopher, John Adam, the first Catharine, and John Adam the second. The other seven reached maturity, were married and had families of their own.

A few thoughts on the Fluck/Fluke surname:

Many references to the Fluck surname associated with Johannes of Bucks Co., PA lead towards the Palatinate area of Germany. Additional speculations shine light on German, Swiss and even French origins. Ship records show the arrival of more than a few Fluck/Fluke possibilities in the 18th century:

Flookey, John	Virginia	1672
Fluck, Johannes	Philadelphia	1744
Fluck, Ludwig	Philadelphia	1749
Flug, Jacob	Philadelphia	1750
Fluck, Christian	Nova Scotia	1751
Fluk, John Adolph	Philadelphia	1752
Flug, Jeremiah	Philadelphia	1753
Fluck, William	New York	1777

Johannes Fluck, ancestor of many researchers who travel these pages, resided in Bucks Co., Pennsylvania and was married to Anna Mary Dui. Many descendants still reside in Bucks Co., while other expanded west and south. Jacob Fluck arrived in Philadelphia in 1750 and, after ten years, patented land in Maryland. This line of Fluck's still flourishes along the eastern coast and points west as all lines naturally traveled. I have yet to find any researchers that can tie their surname into the other lines I have listed above -- although the northern mid-west states all lead to a Canadian entry, perhaps from Christian or a Fluck/Fluke entry from England in the 19th century. I can find no additional information concerning the others listed.

Concerning Jacob Fluck, the article published in the National Genealogical Society Quarterly (Sept. 84), states the following: "A 1910 county history stated 'the Flook family is descended from five brothers who were of French Hugenot [sic] origin'. Jacob Fluck did have five sons, and they were members of the German Reformed Church, closely related to the Huguenots in faith. A parish register in Ras-Rhin, Oberseebach (on the French side of the Rhine River), has been found recording the family of a Johannes Jacobus Pflug and wife Anna Marcharetha, including sons Johannes Jacobus, b. 2 March 1698; Johannes Martinus, b. 5 june 1701; and Johannes Petrus, b. Sept. 1704."

Pflug is the German word for "plow". Keep in mind that references exist for Johannes where the name is spelled "Flug". As Germans took refuge on English ships bound for America, their names were subject to being anglicized. The "P" could easily have been dropped with little change to the pronunciation. In fact, it could easily have been changed to Fluck. I think that there might be a high possibility the surname was "Pflug" in Germany. The article on Jacob Fluck refers to the Pflug family as residing "on the French side of the Rhine River". This is the German Palatinate. It is the south side of the Rhine. Remember, for years the border moved around depending who won the last conflict. The Rhine River runs through Mainz, Germany, the referenced birth place of Anna Mary Dui.

It would seem logical that existing records would show Dui's and Pflug/Flug/Fluck's close together near Mainz or south/southwest of Mainz. A LDS IGI search for Dui/Duy in Germany in the late 1600's and early 1700's lists only a handful and almost all are from the same location: Kriegsfeld, Pfalz, Bayern or Munsterappel, Pfalz, Bayern. This is the German Palatinate area about 20 miles southwest of Mainz. A search of France and Switzerland for Dui's comes up empty. And guess what? Pflug's are found in the same area with records in Bad Duerkheim, Babelroth, and Siebeldingen. Bad Duerkheim is less than twenty miles from Kriegsfeld. In this area there are no Flug's or Fluck's. The Pflug records suggest that the family moved south and west towards the French border. From the mid-1700's through the mid 1800's, extensive records appear in the area of Vinningen, Germany. There are quite a few listings. The fact remains that we can find families of Dui's and Pflug's living in the same general area in the mid to late 1600's. A coincidence? I don't think so. I think an exhaustive search of records in this area would lead to Johannes family and perhaps Jacob's family.

Do I think Jacob of Maryland and Johannes of Pennsylvania were related? Quite possibly. Jerry Flooke who is a descendent of Jacob sent me an additional clue just today. One of Jacob Fluck's neighbor's (adjoining farm in Maryland) was Conrad Jung. A Conrad Jung's name also appears on the ship's list for the 1744 entry of the Phoenix in Philadelphia, the ship carrying the Johannes Flug family. Perhaps there is a connection.

One other point of note. The Pennsylvania Archives, 5th Series, Vol. 1, Page 1 contains an articles entitled "Officers and Soldiers in the service of the Province of Pennsylvania: 1744-1764". In a listing of soldiers who saw service in Canada in 1746, there is a John Jacob Fluke, aged 46, from Germany, occupation of tailor. Perhaps this is the English version of Johannes Jacobus Pflug, an immigrant of 1744 aboard the Phoenix.

"The Fluck family in southeastern Pennsylvania are mostly descendants of Johannes Fluck and his wife Anna Marie who emigrated to Pennsylvania from the area of Kreuznah or Mainz, just north of the then Palatinate in the Rhine Valley. They arrived in Philadelphia on the Ship Phoenix, from Rotterdam, on October 20, 1744, along with their family of which one is registered, Philip Fluck, the oldest son, besides that of Johannes Fluck."<sup>1</sup>

So begins Charles H. Price, Jr.'s 1969 self published book that included the first systematic genealogy of the Fluck line. It is almost certain that in order to obtain passage to the Colonies Johannes, as was the custom of the time<sup>2</sup>, traded five years of his life farming on a wealthy landowner's plantation, in Johannes' case the Hannah Freame estate. Hannah Freame was a grand daughter of William Penn and inherited a portion of the 45,000 acres ? granted' to Penn as remission of a debt to his father by the King of England in the 1680s.

Unfortunately, Johannes also had to work for passage for his wife and three minor children, so his indenture was 25 years! And, in fact, there is record that, as Price states: "on December 2, 1769 Hannah Freame of Philadelphia, a large landowner in Bucks County, gave a deed for 92 acres and 57 perches<sup>3</sup> of land to John Flug (Fluck), bounded by the lands of Dietrich Welgar, Isaac Hunsberger, Henry Freed and the Freame Manor."<sup>4</sup> There is a map dated 1739 showing Thomas Freame's land adjacent to "Servants Lands. So called being laid out to persons who came servants into this Province." I have found no such map from the late 1760s or early 1770s.

Johannes' Will<sup>5</sup>

In 1771 Johannes brought in a scribe to take down his Will (the Will is in English) and here are some highlights: "...being weak of body but of sound mind & memory blessed be God do this 24th day of January 1771"...within six months of my death all real estate to be sold at "public vendee" and give the purchaser "reasonable credit" along with a deed. All personal property is to be sold as well, with the exception of the specifics to follow.

"...my wife, Mary, shall have for her maintenance and support as long as she remains my widow in lieu of Dowar, the interest of 150 pounds yearly to remain in the hands of (Philip) to be paid out of my real & personal estate." ?Mary' also gets: all her wearing apparel, bed, bedding, spinning wheel; her choice of one cow, 2 ?putar' dishes, one pot, 3 spoons, one chest; 10 lbs. of ?Hetcheled' flax, 10 lbs. of tow, and 6 bushels of rye. If she needs more support Philip should take it out of the principal. ?Mary' gets the 12 pounds owed to Johannes by Philip Smith!

Johannes' 5 sons and 4 daughters<sup>6</sup> are to "share & share alike" the rest of his personal items, including the remaining principal when Marie dies. Throughout the document the scribe consistently anglicizes everyone's name except Johannes' and he writes ?Mary', Philip and ?John's' last names as ?Flug'. The scribe signs "Johannes fluck" within the body of the Will, but the signature at the end of the document is certainly of a different hand?that, we assume, of Johannes'. Anna Marie signs with an "X" (and the scribe writes her name as Mary Flug) and Philip's signature is indecipherable.

Johannes' death

The fact that the will was drawn in 1771 would lead us to believe that he died shortly thereafter, but his land was not sold "at public vendee" until February, 1775, which would suggest (since the Will stipulates that it be sold within six months of his death) that he died in the last half of 1774. Since everyone involved would benefit by a quick disposition of the property, it seems a reasonable conclusion that he didn't die until late 1774. Indeed a small tombstone inscribed "J. Fluck, 1775" (above) is located in the Tohickon Union Cemetery in Bedminster Township, Bucks County, PA. His death is not recorded in the church records? nor is the death of any other ?J. Fluck' around that time<sup>7</sup>. In cold climates in years past it was not unusual for someone who died in the winter to be kept on ice until the ground thawed enough to dig the grave.

<!--[if !supportEmptyParas]--> <!--[endif]-->

It is quite possible that three of Johannes' sons fought in America's Revolutionary War? or at least were assigned to militias in the Richland, Rockhill, Bedminster, or Hilltown Townships. Jacob, Ludwig and John are listed in militias, a John Fluke being fined twice for "not showing up".<sup>8</sup> (This could also have been Philip's son, John.)

Anna Marie

Actually, we don't even really know whether her first name was Anna Marie or Anna Maria? I have seen both. Then of course we have the Anglicization to Mary, which simply confuses the issue more! I have chosen to call her Anna Marie, though it is very likely that she was called Marie?the scribe at the writing of the Will, remember, called her ?Mary', not Ann or Anna or Anna Mary.

There is controversy over Anna Marie's maiden name. There is no primary source that gives us this information. It has been surmised to be Dui because Conrad & Anna Mary Dui were witnesses at Johannes & Marie's last child Anna Maria's baptism in 1753, the only baptism that we have record of them as witnesses. The reasoning is that she and Conrad were siblings. I, personally, find that far-fetched. I would love to hear from anyone who has a primary source that clarifies her maiden name. Use the web site's chat room to post your source!

Upon the death of Johannes, Anna Marie moved in with either her son Ludwig or Casper in Richland Township where she survived another quarter century. The death record in the Tohickon Reformed Church listed her as "Old Widow Fluck, Springfield" (where the church there was). She was certainly in her 90s at the time of her demise on December 23, 1799, outliving even most of her children. Her tombstone has not been found but because her death was recorded at the Tohickon Reformed Church it is a reasonable assumption that her body was brought back for burial in the Tohickon Union Cemetery.

Why?

I find myself asking why a forty-something year old man would uproot his family and cross an ocean into 25 years of indentured servitude. As the Holy Roman Empire crumbled, the Palatinate regularly changed hands from Roman Catholic potentates to Protestant ones and then back again. And indeed a Roman Catholic ruler seized power in the Palatinate 25 years prior to his emigration, so religious persecution is one possibility, though I note that Johannes does not take an active role in the religious life of his community once in the New World.

More likely in my mind has to do with the German practice of primogeniture: the right of the eldest son to inherit the entire estate of his parents. I suggest that Johannes was not the eldest son and when his father died the farm went to the eldest son and Johannes was given notice to move out. Land in the Rhine Valley was scarce. The average landholding was literally one third the size of the average in the Colonies.<sup>9</sup> There was no future for this son in his homeland, so he took the only opportunity he saw. It is interesting to note that in his own Will, Johannes repeats over and over again that all his children, the five sons and four daughters, are to "share and share alike". Perhaps he was determined not to perpetuate upon his own children the injustice he felt done to him.

<!--[if !supportEmptyParas]--> <!--[endif]-->

<sup>6</sup>Note that we only have record of 5 sons and THREE daughters. Wild speculation here, but that daughter must have been alive in 1771 at the writing of the Will (unless Johannes was delirious) AND she couldn't have been a child at the time of the immigration because Johannes' indenture would have been 30 years! So, the choices are: born here in a completely unrecorded birth and unmarried or an unrecorded marriage (certainly not unusual); old enough to contract for her own indenture from the Palatinate; or married and immigrated with her husband at the same or a later time. Is Anna Mary and Conrad Dui actually daughter and son-in-law of Johannes and Anna Marie?

<!--[if !supportEmptyParas]--> <!--[endif]-->

<sup>7</sup>There was, however, an unrecorded death of a child born in 1773 named Johann Adam Fluck?son of Johannes' first son, Philip. Johann Adam died sometime prior to Philip's death in 1780 because he is not mentioned in the Will, as all of Philip's other children are by name. It is possible that he died in 1775 and the small tombstone is his. Only an exhumation will tell!

Church Elder

Phillip was active in the community and the Tohickon Reformed Church. He served for a time as elder and his name appears the collector of funds for the support of the church and the financial records of years 1768, 1769 and 1770. Pastor J. Christopher Gobrecht received some or all of his salary from the hands of Phillip Fluck.

Philip Fluck was born in the Rhine Valley sometime in 1725 and immigrated to Pennsylvania at the same time as his parents on the ship Rotterdam, arriving in Philadelphia on October 20, 1744. On the ship's roster his name is inadvertently written as "Frederick (X) Flugh". The "X" signifies that a clerk wrote the name and the individual made the "X", usually indicating that the individual was illiterate. As a 19 year old, he had apparently contracted for his own indenture to pay his passage, because we see him out of his father's house, married and a landowner within a short space of time.<sup>1</sup>

He married Barbara Kern, whose family (headed by Frederick Kern) immigrated to the area just a few years after Philip in 1747. Barbara was born January 25, 1726 (in Germany, of course) and they were united in an unrecorded marriage, having their first child in 1750. They were active, along with the Kern family, in the Tohickon Reformed Church where Philip eventually became an elder and the collector/disburser of funds from 1768 - 1770.<sup>2</sup>

It is with his first child, "John", that we begin the confusion surrounding the many "Johns" in the family because his parents ALSO bore a child in that year and named him "John". Actually, we know from other documents that these "Johns" were either "Johannes" or "Johann" at this time, but those who translated the original church documents (the whereabouts of which I do not know) in the early 20th century, chose to Anglicize all the names, so this hampers us by not providing even that small a distinction.

Life in Hilltown Township, Bucks County, PA

Philip, Barbara and their family lived and farmed in Hilltown Township, eventually purchasing and working a farm that would stay in the family for three generations. We don't know the actual date of the purchase of this property because it wasn't duly registered until after Philip's death! But it quite possibly contained property originally deeded him from his indenture.<sup>3</sup> The land is described as being bounded by Laurence Kramer's land, Herbert Kassel's land, Valentine Kramer's land, Matthias Johnson's (formerly Lackaria Moller's) land, and College land tenured to Leonard Eckart. This final marking places the property squarely on the boundary of Hilltown and Rockhill Townships and VERY near to his brothers Casper's and Jacob's lands.

From maps surviving from the time of his grandson (1834), we see that the property sits in a corner of Hilltown Township right next to both Rockhill and Bedminster Townships. The land is divided into two parts, sitting kitty-corner across Schwenk Mill Road from each other and bordering Blue School Road on the south. A small part of the property is in Rockhill Township.<sup>4</sup> The 1779 Bucks County Tax List shows Philip as owning 160 acres along with six horses and ten cattle.

Although obviously trusted by his fellow church members (he handled their finances for three years) I surmise his education level to be low because in a society where penmanship was equated with education, Philip's signature is undecipherable! What he signs as his first name bears no resemblance to "Philip" and "Fluck" can hardly be made out. His father had much better penmanship!

Three or four of Philip and Barbara's sons served in militias during America's Revolutionary War: Ludwig, Casper, Frederick and possibly John?the "John Fluke" could have been Philip's brother born the same year as his son John. Frederick became a commissioned officer ("Ensign") in 1781 at the age of 20. The others served without distinction?two even receiving fines for "not showing up"<sup>5</sup>! None claimed a pension.

Looking over his children's spouses we see that the Leydis and the Flucks were very friendly as three Fluck boys married three Leydi girls! But then, two Huber girls married another two of the Fluck boys. Interesting that neither Leydi nor Huber property bounded Philip's farm. It must have been the church connection!

Philip's Death and Will

Philip died in 1780 at age 55?just 6 years after his father?and was survived by Barbara for 26 years, just as "Old Widow Fluck" survived her husband by a quarter century. Barbara died May 19, 1806. Both tombstones are in the Tohickon Union Cemetery, A - 15 (Bucks County, PA).

Philip's Will<sup>6</sup> provided that his third son, Christian, purchase the farm after the youngest child reached the age of majority. Elizabeth reached 21 years of age in 1786 and in 1787 six children signed a release on the farm in favor of Christian.<sup>7</sup> This is rather conclusive that four of Philip and Barbara's 11 children never reached adulthood: Christopher, Johann Adam (the first), Catharine, and Johann Adam (the second).

Price states: "So the heirs appointed John Heany, Ludwig Benner and Henry Eckel to adjudge the value of the plantation. They agreed on 900 Pounds and the heirs accepted the figure...Of the 900 Pounds that Christian Fluck had to pay to his brothers and sisters, he paid 771 Pounds, 11 shillings and 7 pence, or all except his own share."<sup>8</sup>

Like his father insuring equal division of his worldly assets, so Philip not only makes sure that his children equally share the profits of his land, but also "further I order that there be Vendue made and equal Devition [division] of all my stock and movables amongst my Children or their Heirs after paying my lawful Debts out of my ready Money, now in hand." And like his father, he makes specific provision for his wife's upkeep, with the additional provision that she be provided a room and kitchen privileges in the house that Christian and Hannah have inherited. Again, Philip's signature is undecipherable!

John was born February 27, 1816 and was the fourth generation Fluck in that “good stone house” along Schwenk Mill Road in Hilltown Township, Bucks County, PA. From what I can determine his was also the first generation in our line to actually be christened with Anglicized names. His petition to the court<sup>1</sup> upon his father’s death in 1838 to permit the sale of the property to satisfy creditors is the first we hear of John.

Though we know from church records that his wedding to Catharine Heffner was on November 30, 1843 at the Tohickon Reformed Church, I couldn’t find where he went or what he did once the family farm was sold in 1838. I knew from family lore that he eventually resettled on a different farm in Hilltown Township, but how he got there and what he did to survive was an enigma. My despair grew greater as I plodded through the 1850 Bucks County portion of the Federal census, approaching the end, dutifully recording every Fluck entry. Did he leave the county? How far would he have gone? His son (my great grandfather) went all the way to Iowa—how would I ever find him? But then, with the very last entry, there he was living in Doylestown working as a wheelwright, with wife Catharine and daughters Diana, Willamina, Emaline, and Mary Ann, mother Maria and sister Marie (noted as ‘insane’ in the 1850 census).

Catharine Heffner was born January 22, 1824 and though we have every reason to believe she was born in the United States, there is one entry on a later census that says she claims to have been born in Germany. Looking through ship’s rosters we see a number of Heffners entering the United States that would give credence to either point of view.

One thing is for certain: they were a prolific couple! FIFTEEN children: a large family even in that time! Three of them died within the space of a month during a diphtheria epidemic (the 3, 4 and 5 year olds), an experience certainly not unusual in that time, but unfathomable to us in the United States today.

But ten years prior to the loss of Leidy, Emanuel and Catharine in 1863 we find a simple sale of 84 acres to John Fluck from the estate of Samuel Shelly, (second cousin) Tobius Fluck,<sup>2</sup> administrator, recorded on May 2, 1853.<sup>3</sup> From a map dated 1844<sup>4</sup> we see that Samuel Shelly's farm was located on Schultz Road between Keystone Drive and Diamond Street, bounded by the lands of John Detweiler, Henry Esseet and Abraham Roth. It is on this farm that the majority of those 15 children were born, and where all of them were reared. And from this farm that all of them fled to pursue occupations other than farming, from tradesmen to salesmen to toll collector!

Nostalgia infects most of us and in the early 1930s when son Frank, himself entering his 80s, painted a watercolor of the farmstead, surviving siblings and his children pressed him to paint one for them, too. One of those watercolors of the farm on Schultz Road is in the hands of John & Catharine's great grand daughter Margie. Another great grand daughter, Peggy, is said to know where another is. The others I cannot account for.

Eunice Reich, in her article My Grandfather's Clock<sup>5</sup> reveals that John and Catharine retired to their son Frank's house in Quakertown though she doesn't tell us exactly when. The narrative makes us feel like it was after her birth, but John was 77 at Eunice's birth in 1893 so it is likely that the farm was sold and the move was made prior to that. She describes them both staying busy with gardens and grape arbors and lawn care, and during the evenings grandmother Catharine reading Bible stories to her while grandfather John sat in a corner listening too, while peeling and eating an apple or turnip. "Then sometimes grandfather would make shadows on the wall with his hands of ducks and rabbits and he would try to form my little fingers to do the same but it was not a huge success."<sup>5</sup> John died November 14, 1897.

Eunice states that grandmother Catharine "stepped on a stool to pull down a window shade and fell and broke her hip and spent her last years in a bed downstairs so her daughter could take care of her without climbing the stairs."<sup>5</sup>

Another granddaughter, Katherine, remembers seeing her grandmother Catharine when she was very old "with aunt Sybilla sitting on the porch in their aprons looking so proper".<sup>6</sup> Since Katherine was born in 1907, her grandmother was in her late 80s and the scene probably took place on the porch of her uncle Frank's home in Quakertown on a family visit. At Catharine's death in 1914 the six sons sat for a photograph (above). Unfortunately we have no such record of the six daughters, two being dead by the time of their mother's demise. Katherine's daughter Margie has a whole album of photos from the late 1800s of people who are undoubtedly family—many in costume taken at a photo studio—that even Katherine couldn't identify.

For the first time in our line, the gap between the death of the husband and that of the wife closes a bit! Catharine only outlived John by 17 years, though both lived to ripe old ages, John to 81 and Catharine to 90. This is the first male in our line since Johannes to live beyond his 50s. Both are buried in Union Cemetery in Quakertown.

Born May 20, 1785 probably in that “good stone house” purchased by his grandfather whom he never knew but for whom he was named, Philip grew up with his parents and grandmother and a growing number of siblings with each passing year. His two closest siblings, sisters Elizabeth and Catharine, left the house when they married Daniel and Matthias Housekeeper in 1804 and 1808, respectively. Philip's grandmother, Barbara, died in 1806, and his father, Christian, passed away at 52 years of age in 1809.

With his father's death the land and everything that he needed to run the farm passed to Philip. But, similarly to his father, he had to divide 2,400 pounds<sup>1</sup> (presumably the value of the plantation) between all the siblings: Elizabeth, himself, Catharine, Magdalena, Christian, Hannah, Abraham, Anna Barbara, and Susanna.<sup>2</sup>

Though now the deed holder, his mother and five minor siblings still lived there when Philip married Maria Ott on May 26, 1812. Maria was born December 23, 1792 to John and Elizabeth Ott. As Philip's younger siblings matured, they were replaced with children of his own as the house once again heard the patter of tiny feet.

We have no concrete information from the time of their marriage until four County and two State tax assessments in 1828, 1830, 1832 and 1833. In that 15 years we find that the property has shrunk to 79 acres valued at $18 - $26 per acre (depending on the year)—yes, we have made the transition to U.S. dollars—and he owns two horses, valued at $30 each, and two cattle, valued at $12 each. His County taxes are $4 and his State tax $2! There is no description of the house.

It is with this generation that my family's personal records become a source. In my great-aunt Katharine's hand I have a genealogical list that has Phillip (yes, with two 'l's) and Maria Ott at the top, listing their eight children and their dates of birth. Aunt Katharine obviously never knew anyone from Philip's generation, having been born in 1907 herself, but her source for the dates of birth are a family bible in the possession of her daughter. And it was with this clue, Philip marrying Maria Ott, that I was able to connect our line with the genealogy provided by Charles Price.<sup>3</sup>

Though we see from his signature on his father's Will that Philip's penmanship is impeccable, his management ability must have left something to be desired because at his early demise at the age of 52 and a half on February 16, 1838, he left so many debts that the property had to be sold to satisfy creditors! In fact, not learning from his father's example, he died intestate, and his son John, at the age of 22, had to petition the 'Orphan Court' (that's a legal term, not a description!) to be administrator for his father's estate. Note that women still have no automatic rights as a surviving spouse, as the court appoints son John administrator rather than wife Maria.

"...presented to the Orphan Court...on 9/11/1838...that the deceased Philip leaving a widow and six children and...that the personal estate is not sufficient for the payment of his debts so praying the court to grant unto them an order to sell said plantation...for the payment of the debts."<sup>4</sup>

The description of the land at this time is: bounded by "Beginning at a stone for a corner at Michael Kramer's land at the intersection of two public roads thence along the Branch road and by the lands of Leonard Eckhart and Samuel Eckhart..."<sup>4</sup> then bounded also by Christian Eckhart, Isaac Cassel & John Eckhart for a tract of 70 acres. Then there is a second tract of 30 acres bounded by 2 public roads (I think it is still across the road from the first tract), Henry Stout, Isaac Cassel, Leonard Eckhart, Isaac Schlichter, and Eli Thomas' lands. The 100 acres is only a portion of the 160 acres that Christian had originally left to his son, Philip. Why the earlier assessments were only for 79 acres, I don't understand.

The sale to Charles Nase was for $4,005 "subject nevertheless to the widow's privileges and endowments."<sup>4</sup> (Upon his death, Christian willed that Hannah be allowed a house and small income & food until she died.) It is also interesting to note that the court makes specific provision for the education of the minor children from the remainder of the money from the sale after the satisfaction of the creditors. Those minors were: Christiana, age 19; Jacob, age 11; Thomas, age 8; and Marie, age 2. Although referred to as 'John Fluke' throughout the document, John signed 'John Fluck'.

And here we find the wisdom of primogeniture, after noting its inequity. Encumbering the inheritors of the estate with buying out siblings at fair market value leaves the deed holders with a continual mortgage that will eventually end in bankruptcy. Farming is precarious under the best of circumstances. To pay debt, land will be sold off, reducing the potential income during good years. Eventually, there is no catching up.

Although Philip's mother, Hannah, lived out her days in a small house on the property, dying in 1843, his wife, Maria, had no such arrangement. In the 1850 census we see her and 14 year old daughter Marie living with John (my great-great grandfather) and family in Doylestown. Marie is listed as "insane" and dies two years later. Mother Maria lives until 1876 with son John and family, outliving her husband by 38 years.

A great transition happens during the lifetime of Philip and Maria, exemplified by their tombstones. Philip's tombstone, hewn in 1838, is completely in German. Maria's, having died in 1876, is completely in English.<sup>5</sup> I suggest that Philip and Maria's first language was German, though they were probably able to function in halting English. By contrast, their children were probably totally bilingual, increasingly losing the German of their youth to the English of the growing American way of life. Philip and Maria's grandchildren will know little German and their great grandchildren will actually try to prove that they are Dutch because of the discrimination experienced by Germans in the United States during the First World War.<sup>6</sup> This transition is also evident in the church records. By mid-19th century all church records are in English rather than German.

Christian, the third surviving son of Philip and Barbara (Kern), was born February 7, 1757. Though of perfect age to fight in the Revolution, being 19 in 1776, he does not appear on any militia or company roles as do three or four of his brothers and two or three of his uncles. Brother Frederick was promoted to Ensign in 1781 at the age of 20!<sup>1</sup> On January 30, 1781, in contrast, Christian and Hannah Leydi marry at the Tohickon Reformed Church which straddles Hilltown and Bedminster Townships.

The Bucks County Census of 1784 finds Christian living on 160 acres (this would be his father's property that he will own once his sister Elizabeth comes of age) with four other people: (we surmise) Hannah, his wife; their first child, Elizabeth; Barbara, his mother; and his sister, Elizabeth. Sister Elizabeth will very shortly be leaving to set up her own house with Abraham Paul whom she marries June 20, 1784 when she is 19 years old.

It is in 1788 that the final disposition of Philip's property is recorded when all Christian's siblings and their spouses sign away their rights to the property in his favor in exchange for an equal division of 900 pounds.<sup>2</sup> One of the most interesting things to me about these deeds is that the men can sign their name, but the women, though required also to sign the release, are illiterate, and therefore "make their mark" (an "X") with the scribe filling in their names. This is the general pattern through the first quarter of the 19th Century after which girls increasingly are also taught to read and write. It is also with these signatures that we can see what they actually called themselves: the Johns are actually Johannes or Johann; and to see the variant spellings of our last name: Fluck, Fluke, Flucke, Fluick, Flook, Flug. The most common are Fluck and Fluke.

In 1790 with the Federal Census we find that Christian's household contains one male over 16 (that would be Christian) one male under 16 (that would be his five year old son, Philip—my great, great, great grandfather) and four females. Those 'females', we extrapolate, are: Barbara, Christian's mother; Hannah, his wife; and their two daughters, Elizabeth and Catharine. Because Carl, born October 17, 1789, is not listed in the census (the census only reports one male under 16 in the household), I conclude that he died prior to the Spring of 1790.

It is from the 1798 Federal Tax Assessment that we get our first description of this property other than its size. Christian and his family live in a "good stone house, one story" that measures 35' x 25' with a "good stone barn" of exactly the same size. Today, 35' x 25' would be the size of two rooms. The property and buildings are valued at 2,430 pounds. 160 acres in Bucks County, PA today would be worth a few million dollars! By this time (1798) that "good stone house" holds NINE people: three adults, five children, and one infant!

In 1801 Christian along with Abraham Gerhart (future father-in-law of daughter Anna Barbara), Michael Scholl (future father-in-law of daughter Susanna), and Adam Kern donated 10 acres of woodland for the unqualified use of three United Protestant German Reformed congregations: those in Fanconia Township, Montgomery County; and Rockhill & Bedminster Townships in Bucks County.<sup>3</sup> Christian signs the deed "Christian Fluke".

Christian's Will<sup>4</sup>

Written on August 18, 1809 by someone unnamed who swore that it was what Christian said,<sup>5</sup> the writer and the executors brought it to the justice of the peace who certified it September 21, 1809—a full four weeks after his death. Christian starts with the usual 'weak of body but sound of mind' and then moves into a religious exhortation: "I recommend my soul into the hands of Almighty God my Creator, and my body to the Earth to be decently and in a Christian manner buried in hopes of a Joyful resurrection through the merits of my Savior Jesus Christ..."

He then makes extensive provision for his wife in the same manner of Johannes and Philip before him, even encumbering part of the secondary plantation to house her, to have free rights of the orchard, the garden, and for her two cows. He wills her yearly 7 bushels of rye, four bushels of flour, 100 pounds of pork, enough wood for warmth and cooking brought to her door and a small stipend. Then she may take the feather bed "and Bedastle" including a table and three chairs, a clothes closet of some kind, a Bible (I wonder where that is) and as much kitchen 'furniture' that she wants.

Philip, the oldest son, gets the main plantation and everything that he needs to run the farm. But, similarly to his father, he must divide 2,400 pounds<sup>6</sup> (presumably the value of the plantation) between all the siblings: Elizabeth, himself, Catharine, Magdalena, Christian, Hannah, Abraham, Anna Barbara, and Susanna. This confirms that Henry (born 1791) is also dead by this time.

All the remaining personal effects are to be sold and, along with the money from the sale of the secondary plantation, which was also ordered by Christian, is to be divided among the siblings as well. The odd thing, however, is that he leaves five minor children (Susanna is only two!) and no specific provisions to make sure that they are taken care of until they reach the age of majority. I assume that Hannah continued in the house until their children were reared, and Philip, 24 at the time of Christian's death, lived there as well and moved his wife in, too, when they married May 26, 1812! Let's hope that "good stone house" has had an addition built onto it!

Philip, his son, and Daniel Housekeeper (daughter Elizabeth's husband) are named the executors, signing the will (Philip with beautiful penmanship—unlike his grandfather!—and spelling the last name 'Fluke'), and Christian signed with an "X" even though we know he was literate because we have his signature on two deeds. Perhaps he was too weak. Or perhaps he was not of sound mind. And then there's that month lag between death (8/27/1809 at age 52) and certification of the will...

Hannah survives 33 years after Christian's death, dying February 13, 1843 outliving even her son Philip. She did live out her days in a small house on that 'secondary plantation' as far as we can tell from court documents dealing with the disposition of the property upon her son's death.<sup>7</sup> Both Christian and Hannah are buried in the Tohickon Union Cemetery, A – 15.

<sup>5</sup>Keep in mind that all official documents are in English and, I propose, it is still German that is Christian's, and probably his son Philip's, first language. They most likely had to bring in someone fluent in both languages to write the Will as was certainly the case with Johannes and Philip (the first).

672 - HISTORY OF RICHLAND COUNTY.*CHAPTER LXXII.*ORANGE TOWNSHIP.**FORMATION - INDIAN TRAIL-INDIANS AND INDIAN RELICS-ANCIENT RELICS-FIRST SETTLERS - FIRST ROAD-MILLS-ORANGE VILLAGE-CHURCHES.

PRIOR to 1816, Montgomery Township, in what is now Ashland County, was twelve miles long from north to south, and six miles wide. June 3, 1816, this territory was divided and the north half called Orange. It was at that time the northeast township of "Old Richland," but became a part of Ashland County in 1846. It was surveyed by Maxfield Ludlow in 1806, when it was yet a wilderness and no white man's cabin within its boundaries. An Indian trail passed through the southwestern part of the township, passing up Jerome Fork, crossing into Clear Creek Township, to Vermillion Lake. This trail was much used by the Wyandots and Ottawas in their passage to and from the eastern part of the State. About the year 1816, this trail was surveyed by Rev. James Haney, of Savannah, a practical surveyor, to Rowsburg, and from there to Wooster. It was opened as a road and used as a common highway by the early settlers of Orange and Clear Creek Townships.

The evidences of Indian occupation in many parts of Orange Township were numerous. The aborigines, it seems, were accustomed to assemble annually in the spring, in large numbers, upon the lands subsequently owned by Isaac Mason. Jacob Young, Jacob Heifner and Peter Biddinger, to make sugar and hunt, which custom they kept up until as late as 1815 or 1816. Mr. Biddinger, being a gunsmith, was often visited by them for repairs to injured or broken flint-locks.

The soil and timber of Orange do not differ materially from others around it, already described. The land is generally level, or with gentle ascents and descents; the township is generally well watered by Jerome Fork of the Mohican and its tributaries, this stream having its rise here.

A few interesting relics of a former age have been found in the township. A few human skeletons were once unearthed on the bank of the creek, while a party of workmen were improving the before-mentioned trail, one of which appeared to be more than seven feet in height. It may be imagined that this was an Indian chief, who once headed his file of dusky warriors along the dark paths and ravines and beautiful streams of the country. If he wielded authority in proportion to his physical dimensions, he must have more than rivaled Pipe. Logan or Tecumseh. Col. John Huray, who discovered the remains, had no difficulty in passing the lower jaw over his face. The cranium and other bones showed that the skeleton belonged to a man of unusual size and power.

About one-fourth of a mile southwest of the village of Orange is to be found an ancient mound. It was examined by Dr. Deming and others, who found well-preserved human bones, remnants of pottery, etc.

The first settlers were as follows: John Bishop, February, 1814, Section 21 ; Vachel Metcalf, 1814; James Campbell; James Clark. 1818, Section 2 : Robert Culbertson, 1825 Phillip Biddinger, 1823; Christian Fast, Sr., 1815, Section 18 ; Jacob Fast, 1817, Section 21 , Nicholas Fast. 1815 ; Phillip Fluke, 1816; Jacob Hifther. Jr., 1817, Section 14; James Medowell, November, 1823, Section 26 ; Edward Murray, 1820; Patrick Murray, 1815 ; John Stull, 1820 ; William Patterson, 1818, Section 7 ; Christopher Rickett, 1822; Daniel Summers, 1818, Section 10 ; Solomon Uriel, 1814, Section 34; Jacob Young, 1814 ; Amos Norris, 1814.

It will be observed from this list that five families (these settlers nearly all brought their families) settled in the township in 1814 ; they were, as was usually the case, mostly from Western Pennsylvania, and many of them came as early as 1813 to select their lands.

The reminiscences of these early settlers are intensely interesting to the present generation, but, however interesting, they cannot all be preserved in print. A few of the best are retained, which convey a truthful picture of pioneer life.

Among the earliest settlers in this township was Christian Fast, Sr., whose captivity among the Indians in this part of the State, is given in the chapter entitled " First White Men in the County." It is only necessary to refer to it here, as it is fully given there. It is a narrative of thrilling interest, and shows in a striking manner the privations of frontier days in the West. Mr. Fast returned in 1815 and settled in this township, where he lived many years. Vachel Metcalf and Amos Norris were the first to move into the township with their families. They came early in the spring of 1814; Jacob Young and Jacob Crouse, however, came the same spring, and the former built his cabin on the Ashland and Orange road, a few rods from where the bridge crosses the Jerome Fork of the Mohican.

Another of these pioneers, Solomon Uriel, relates many interesting adventures. His brother, Thomas, was killed in Eastern Ohio, by the Indians, while he and Solomon were out hunting. The latter barely escaped, on this occasion, by leaping from a high bluff. The Indians dared not follow. Solomon and his son, Samuel, served with credit in the war of 1812. He was with Williamson in his campaign against the Moravian villages in 1782, and witnessed the massacre and burning of the villages. Williamson was his brother-in-law, and on this account he was induced to accompany the expedition. He always disapproved the barbarous act, and often stated to his sons, that Williamson yielded a reluctant consent to the perpetration of that dreadful tragedy, being unable to control the violence of his soldiers, who were border volunteers and had suffered much from Indian raids and depredations. In the winter of 1815, he erected a blacksmith-shop on his land, being the first one in Orange Township, he, being a blacksmith and gunsmith by trade. The first winter after his arrival, he killed forty deer, eight large black bears; a great number of coons and other game.

An Ashland paper of April 9, 1862 has this item: "Jacob Young, an old citizen of this township, died on the 3d instant, at the advanced age of eighty-nine years and three months. He was born in Hardy County, Va. January 1, 1773 ; emigrated to Ohio in 1804, and to this county in 1814. He lived with his companion, who still survives him, sixty-eight years. He was the father of twelve children; and when he died, had one hundred and seventeen grandchildren; one hundred and seventy-six great-grandchildren, and five great-great-grandchildren."

No road had been surveyed in the township at the date of its first settlement. John Bishop carried the chain for the surveyors when they established the first road which led from Sheet's saw-mill, on the east line of Montgomery Township, via Jacob Young's and Leidigh's mill to Savannah, though no mills or towns were then in existence. Mr. Bishop was made Constable at the first election held in the township.

On the site of this Leidigh mill, two miles west of the present village of Orange, was erected the first mill in the township, in 1815, by Martin Mason. The stones were "hard-heads," and would grind sixty bushels per day. The mill commenced operations in March, 1816. That the settlers in Orange and adjacent townships appreciated the advantages of the mill, may be understood when it is stated that prior to its erection, the nearest mill was that of Stibbs, one mile east of Wooster. In 1814-15, no corn could be obtained nearer than Wooster and along Apple and Short Creeks-price, $1.25 per bushel. Wheat could not be obtained nearer than Massillon, at $2 per bushel.

Previous to the erection of this mill, corn was prepared for use on hominy blocks, and nearly every cabin had one. Mr. Mason constructed a hand-mill before this first water-mill was built. He had a couple of hard-heads made into mill-stones. This hand-mill (a good one of its kind) would, by the aid of six persons, produce half a bushel of meal in two hours.

What was called "sick wheat" was often produced in the early attempts at cultivation. The berry would be as plump and attractive in appearance as the best quality ever grown, and the flour as white as the best specimens now produced. When made into bread, it would be palatable, except that it would have a sweet taste; but when eaten by man or beast, it produced a distressing sickness, and only remained upon the stomach a few moments. This was, however, the only disease that attacked the wheat, neither weevil, rust nor smut being then known.

Milling was sometimes done at Beam's on Black Fork, and down on the White Woman the trip to the latter being made in canoes, and occupying about two weeks. For a long time Beam's mill ground only corn.

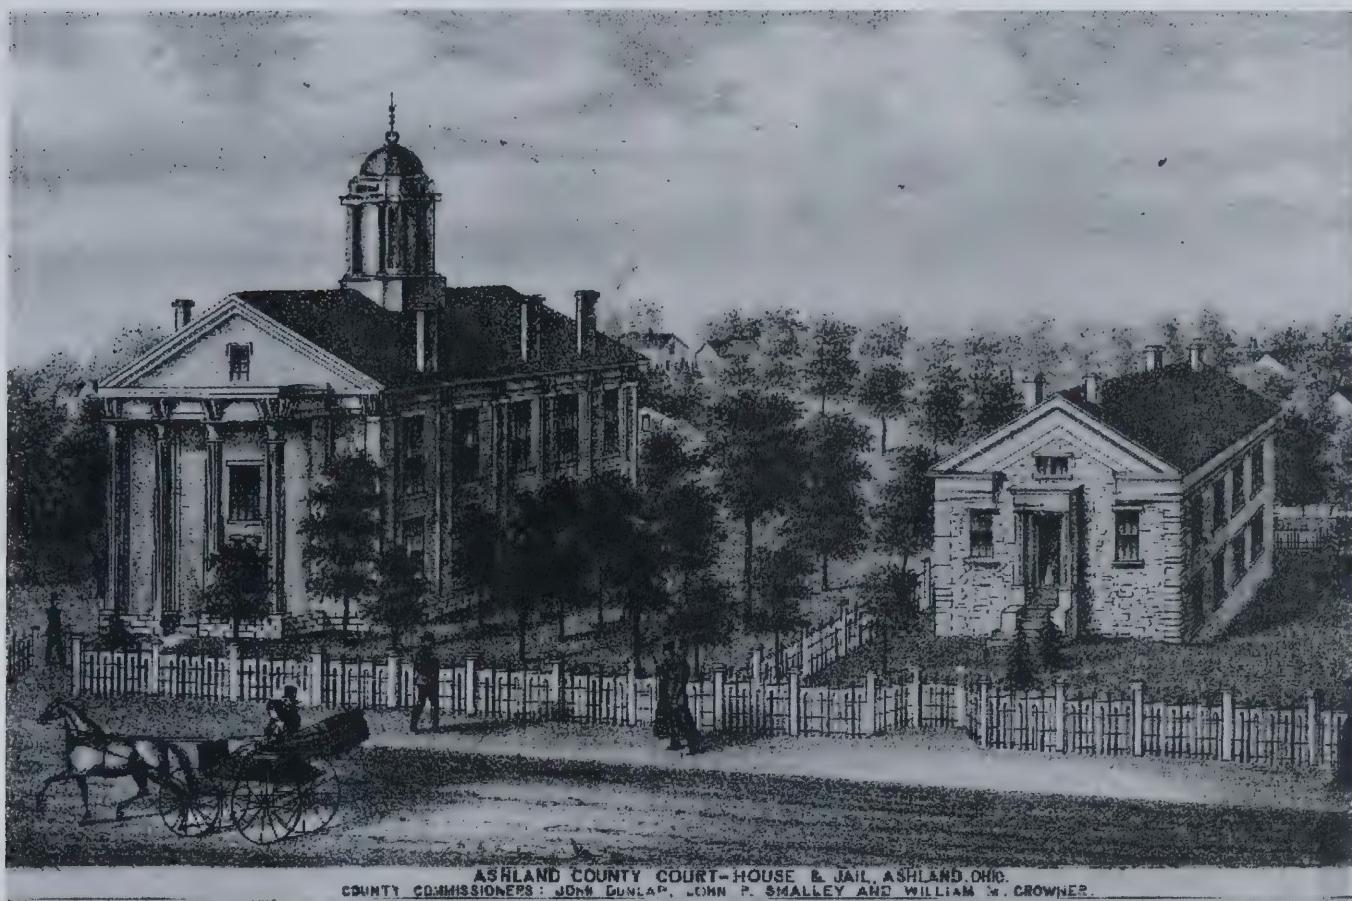

Orange, the only town in the township, was laid out April 22, 1828, by Amos Norris and J. C. Chilcoat. It is located in the midst of a fine fanning region, but long ago arrived at maturity a village of one or two hundred people. The post office is Nankin.

The religious sentiment is well developed a number of churches having been organized in the town and township. One of the earliest is the German Reformed, organized about 1832. The Methodist Episcopal Church of Orange is probably the oldest, having been organized some years before 1830, at which (late) the church building was erected. The Evangelical Lutheran was organized in 1861: the North Orange Methodist Episcopal about 1848; the Canaan Church was erected in 1850: the German Reformed and Methodist Episcopal about 1840; the Old School Presbyterian of Orange in 1834, by Russell Bigelow, the famous missionary; the United Brethren Church building was erected in 1850, and the St. Jacob's German Reformed in 1853.

Pioneer Life in Ashland County

By Katie Shopbell Shidler - 1890

Ashland County, Ohio

HUTCHINGSON & FRAZER
ASHLAND, OHIO

As today, Feb. 22, 1890, is my fifty-sixth birthday, I thought I would like to have a talk with the boys and girls of Maplegrove and vicinity; to tell them of the old pioneers forty-five and fifty years ago; of our fathers and mothers and grandfathers and grandmothers, who moved here, most of them from Pennsylvania in early years, 60 and 70 years ago. They worked hard to clear up this timbered country for our and your benefit that we may enjoy the pleasures of life. Our fathers and mothers and old neighbors are nearly all sleeping beneath the clods of the valley; a few are left to tell the old, old stories of pioneer life. In the old St. Lukes cemetery you will find their names and ages inscribed. I frequently take a stroll through the grave yard, as the bodies that are moulderling there are near and dear to me by the ties of nature and as old neighbors. I can never forget them while memory lasts, as they were so good and kind toward us that they seemed like angels and saints. Our parents always spoke so highly of them that we learned to love them when quite young, and that love has never grown cold toward them; we look forward with anticipation to meet them again in a better clime where parting is no more.

My father, Jacob Shopbell, moved here from Columbia county, Pa., with his family in 1832, bought a farm in Richland now Ashland county, Orange township, near now what is Leidigh's mill.

When he first came here there were log houses and log barns covered with clapboards, and the cracks daubed shut with mud and chunks; the saw mills were scarce if any from the time I can remember, that is fifty years ago. The people began to build hewed log houses and barns; frame houses and barns were not in fashion in those days. The neighbors all, far and near, turned in and helped to build each others houses and barns, and log rolling parties were frequent; so you see we stood in need of more neighbors then, than we do now.

Most of them had large families and could talk the Pennsylvania German, and the greater part of them were democrats, and their successors still uphold the same party; that is why Orange township goes democratic.

Forty-four years ago Ashland county was organized, and I well remember of us boys and girls singing.

Ashland gained the county seat,
And Hayesville met with sore defeat,
Then Hurrah for Ashland county.
Then Hurrah for Ashland county.
Ashland girls are young and handsome.
Ashland boys are brave and winsome.
Then hurrah for Ashland county.
Then hurrah for Ashland county.

Ashland then, was only a small town; the hitching posts were on Main st., on both sides of the street, close to the pavement. There were no saloons or billiard tables or pool playing. Drunks were scarce then, and parents had work for their boys and girls. The girls used to help the boys to flail rye, and many a hard lick we got by hitting our heads with it till we learned how to handle it right. Girls were stronger than they are now, nor did they need any paint to paint their cheeks, for the bloom of health was on their face; there were but few doctors; there was not much for them to do; funerals did not often happen, I don't remember of attending any till I got to be 14 years old; of course there were some, but little girls did not go to them. The reason we were all healthy was, we did not have the rich victuals we now have, our pie dough was made of bread dough and we did not get sweet cakes very often. Canned fruit was not known; we dried all our fruit instead of canning. The girls all wore coarse shoes and the boys wore shoes too, for there were no boots. I never had a custom-made shoe on my foot till I was 19 years old. Father made all our shoes, and skin was the finest leather that we had then.

Pinched waists and Pinched feet were not in style then. I remember the first cooking stove that father brought home from Milan; mother thought she would not like it, but after she got used to it she would not do without it.

People all had fire places in their houses and all cooked by them; we had a crane fastened in our fire-place with a part fixed to hang the dinner pot on and a dutch oven to bake in. Many a pot-pie was made in the dutch oven; our skillet had legs a foot long, and a handle four feet long; we generally had potatoes and meat for breakfast and always had a cooked dinner., sometimes potatoes and side meat cooked together, and sometimes chicken pot pie and apple dumplings, if we had any apples.

We always cooked our vegetables with meat, and for supper we generally had mush and milk and soup of some kind. In harvest time we always took out a 10 o'clock piece of bread and butter, ball cheese, sometimes apple pie or fried cakes made out of bread dough. Separators and mowing machines and binders, wheel hay rakes, hay tedders and the like were not known, but the hand sickle and cradle, hand rake and wooden forks to turn the hay, and the girls could cut wheat with the sickle and bind after the cradle as well as the boys. The grass was cut with scythes and spread with a stick sharpened at each end.

The neighbors nearly all raised flax to work up for clothing and bed clothing, it had to be sowed much thicker than when we wanted it for seed. We pulled it all by hand and bound it in bunches; when it was dry we hauled it to the barn and took the flail and hammered the seed off, then took it to the meadow and spread it out over several acres; left it there till the shives were rotten; then took it home and fixed a scaffold; laid a bundle one at a time and put fire under it to dry; then took the flax brake and broke it. I almost imagine I can hear the sound of the old flax brake yet; then they handed it to the girls who scutched it till all the shives were out; then they put it through the crop hackle; then through a coarse hackle; then the fine hackle. What we hacked out was tow, that we spun for grain sacks and chaff ticks; the flax we spun for table linen and towels, sheets, pillow slips, dresses and pantaloons. We also worked up all our wool from twenty-five or thirty sheep, made coverlets, blankets, casinet cloth, flannels, Linsey and father did the weaving. Carpets were not in style those days; nobody had any. I must tell the boys and girls how we used to full our blankets, cloth and casinet; we laid two logs on the floor about six or seven feet apart, boys bare-footed on each log, held the blankets between their feet and kicking with all their might while someone would pour hot soapsuds on the blanket; it took several hours. The neighbor boys came in to help and had lots of fun. Boys, how would you like it. We had a rope machine that we used to make all our bed cords, clothes lines, plow lines, and the neighbors made their ropes too.

Boys and girls, I wish you could have taken a peep in our old log school house that stood on the hill between Sadlers and William Kendig's just where the road leads down to John Pollock's, you could see a vast difference between our school house and the school house now, there were five windows and long disks all around the walls.

The big girls and boys sat with their backs toward the wall all facing each other, the little scholars all sat around the stove facing each other and had to hold their books in their hands, as there were no desks to lay them on.

The master's chair stood behind the stove, the boys wore red blouses and home spun pants, the girls all wore flannel or linsey for dresses, they wore bonnets and shawls and cloaks, and when we came in the school house in the morning we all made our manners to the master, the girls bowed their knees and the boys bowed their heads.

We had a very large school, as the school district was much larger then, then now, and generally we had men of thirty or forty years of age to teach. My first teacher was John Bright, the next was Turner, the next Parker, and his wife taught little scholars; the next was Rasabell Wilson, then Glasford, then Charles Coleman, then Thomas Calhoon. He taught two terms; Israel Myers taught two terms and then Milton Mason, who was my last teacher, about forty years ago. There is but one of my teachers living and that is Thomas Calhoon. I wish he would come around and visit some of his old scholars. How glad we would be to see our old master as we called him. I remember the first blackboard that was brought in the old school house; it was about three feet long and two and one-half wide; some of the big boys ciphered on it. But very few of the girls studied arithmetic. In about five years after they brought another blackboard about as large as a door; they were all the blackboards the old school house ever got. Reading and writing and spelling were all the younger scholars from 10 to 14 had, and they read in the spelling book. First we had the United States spelling book; in 1845 we got the elementary spelling book; the larger scholars read in the English reader. I think their arithmetic was called the Western Calculator; it was a hard book for young beginners; there were a few of the larger scholars studying grammar and geography. The big and little scholars were all used alike; if the big scholars broke the rule they had to take a whipping or leave school. On Christmas we had lots of fun; the big boys would pen the master out until he would promise to treat; sometimes he treated with apples and sometimes with cake; how much we relished them. Yet the spot where playground was is now farmed over and the green grass that used to grow there is no longer to be seen. Oh, where are the scholars? Some have moved to the far west and some have crossed over on the other shore; some still live around here. Oh what changes there have been made in forty and fifty years, and oh, how many have passed away since then. Of the old pioneers that yet remain in this vicinity are Jesse Wertman and wife, Abraham Miller and wife, John Binard and wife, widow Kendig, widow Murray, widow Means, widow Lehman, widow Linard. How few remain of our old neighbors, but when you meet them they all seem cheerful and happy.

I went through the woods last week to see a sick woman, Miss Fast, and I went across where the old camp meeting ground was on Joseph Gray's place, and I noticed there on a large beech tree some one had carved out a meeting house with a large steeple, a door, windows and steps in the year 1840. That is fifty years ago; I remember of being at that camp meeting; mother took me by the hand and led me around the tents and went in one where Katie Hartman was reading in the Bible; she was only a young girl and could not talk or hear. She is still living but very aged. She lives with her sister, Mrs. Heifner.

Oh boys and girls I wish you could have seen our big wagon bed that father brought from Pennsylvania. I believe it held a hundred bushels. He must have had it chuck full for all the family and bedclothes and every thing that they brought along in it. I remember the house we built fifty-three years ago. It is still standing, but the weather boarding is falling off and the logs are peeping through. Oh, how pleasant it used to be in the winter evenings; we would make up a big fire in the fireplace, put in a back log; we had fire dogs to keep up the back log so it did not roll out on the hearth; it made the kitchen light without a candle. When butchering time come, it was fun to see the boys chopping sausage meat; we had a long bench, ten feet long, a board nailed on the back and at each end to keep the meat from flying out. The neighbor boys, Leidigh boys and Fulmer boys, came to help chop the meat. They could almost play a tune with their choppers.

I am afraid my letter is getting too long to be interesting, the boys and girls will get tired of reading it, although there might be lots more said.

Daniel Summers

Ashland County Ohio

DANIEL SUMMERS Was born in Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania May 27, 1788, and came to Orange Township, Richland County Ohio in 1818, and located on section ten, where he died, August 15, 1863, aged seventy-five years and seventeen days. During his pioneer life he passed through many hardships incident to the times, such as cabin raisings, log rollings, corn husking, flax scutchings, and the like. For the few years, he and his family met with many privations; but he met all bravely, and was employed often in assisting his neighbors to improve their lands, and in erecting cabins. Mr. Summers married in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, December 5, 1815. At his decease his family consisted of seven girls and four boys: Barbara, Mary, Catherine, Margaret, Susan, Eliza, Hannah, Henry, Adam, Daniel and Jacob. Four of the girls, Susan, Catherine, Eliza and Barbara, are dead; the boys are all living. The first settlers, Mrs. Summers states, were: Philip Fluke, James Clark, Peter Biddinger (the first gunsmith), Thomas Donley, Robert Mickey, Mr. Wheeler and sons, William Patterson, John McConnell, William McConnell, George McConnell and others, now nearly all gone. Mrs. Summers also states that the earliest teachers in that district remembered, were: Isaac Stull, Sage Kellogg, Elijah Banning, and many others not now remembered. Mrs. Summers is a member of the German Reformed church, and has been for the past sixty-four years. She remains on the old homestead, and taught her children lessons of industry, morality and economy.

THE COVER PAGE

" THE DOUBLE-HEADED EAGLE "

Pennsylvania German folk art has received much of its inspiration and meaning from the hymnology of the German Pietists. They in their poetry portrayed the life in Christ in symbolic language. Thus the symbol points beyond itself. Symbols have a direct connection with the realities toward which they point and they can be replaced only by a changed self-revelation.

The Pennsylvania folk artist adapted these symbols to his art. Thus when you see the design on the cover which is adapted from a Sgraffito Ware Plate with the Double-Headed Motif. This is some of the meaning that can be taken from it.

The Double-Headed Eagle symbolizes strength and courage.

The Heart, for the love in marriage. To the hymnist the heart represented the center from which the life in Christ grows.

The Tulip represents faith, hope and charity.

The Branches, represent much as the Tree of Life itself, the life in Christ.

The Folk Artist usually placed the Tulip at the top of the tree or branch, thus the Tulip symbolized Christ at the head of life. The Tree being the life in Christ, this often had flowers and Tulips of varied sizes, thus they represented "the believers" in the different "age stages" of their life in Christ.

The symbolic ideas of Pennsylvania German folk art have a history, since they have come out of a rich and interesting past. And the symbolic designs of the Pennsylvania German folk art died when the point of view which created them — the faith of Pennsylvania's radical religious sects — was killed by the advent of religious liberalism. So today if we wish to find the meaning of this symbolism and the meaning of Pennsylvania German folk art, we must turn to the books written by those who have done this investigation. If your interested, a good one is "Pennsylvania German Folk Art" by John Joseph Stoudt, published by the Pennsylvania Folklore Society, Volume Twenty-eight, 1986.

THE FLUCK FAMILY

The History and Genealogy of the Fluck Family has its interest mainly in two main lines of the Family of Johannes Fluck, the immigrant who settled in Rockhill Township, Bucks County, Penna. One of these family lines is that of Ludwig Fluck, his son, Ludwig Ruhl Fluck, of which line Laura Lydia Trumbower Price and her family are descendants. This line also has also interest in the history of Christ Reformed Church at Indian Creek, Franconia Township, Montgomery County, since Ludwig Fluck and his wife, Barbara Ruhl, were members of that congregation before they moved to Richland Township, Bucks County, where the descendants of this line are found in large numbers.

The other line is that of Johannes Fluck's son Philip Fluck, through his son, Frederick Fluck, who settled in Hilltown Township, Bucks County. This branch also were, and still are, members of Christ Reformed Church at Indian Creek and have taken an active part in the affairs of that congregation.

In the compiling of a History and Genealogy one receives help from many sources, it is so in the compiling of the material for the Fluck Family, especially the Philip Fluck side of this family. During the life of Howard Wolf Fluck, then living in Telford, he compiled the data for his line from Johannes Fluck and son Philip Fluck to his own generation. This material and data is used in this History and Genealogy and the writer here wishes to express his great gratitude to Mr. Fluck who was a school teacher and a very active member in the congregation at Indian Creek, having been Superintendent of the Sunday School for many years, a member of the Pennsylvania German Society in which he took a great interest. His branch of the Fluck Family have been members of the Church at Indian Creek since the colonial period.

This Fluck Family History is part of the overall work , the Trumbauer -Fluck - Gross - Greup Family Histories, therefore to save time and space, there will be some cross references in these families, one into the other, as convenience dictates. Thus, In the Fluck Family we terminate the Ludwig Fluck line with LYDIA FLUCK, of the FIFTH GENERATION, who married Edwin Gross. Here you will see a cross reference to the SIXTH GENERATION of the GROSS FAMILY, for the history and genealogy of their children of the SEVENTH GENERATION, and their descending lines. So also under EDWIN GROSS in the GROSS FAMILY you will be referred to the FLUCK FAMILY for the descendants of LYDIA FLUCK, his wife.

In similar manner this is being done between the Gross Family and the Trumbauer-Trumbower-Trumbore Family, and vice versa. The latter History and Genealogy was published in Spring of 1968, contains 118 pages. This then completes the ancestry of the four family lines of Laura Lydia Trumbower Price, her sisters, and contemporary relatives.

FIRST GENERATION

JOHANNES<sup>1</sup> FLUCK, probably born in the Palatinate, present Germany. b. ;
also probably born in the Palatinate, present Germany. Burial place unknown, but believed to be in unmarked grave in Tohickon Union Church Cemetery.

The Fluck Family in southeastern Pennsylvania are mostly descendants of Johannes Fluck and his wife, Anna Mary ( ), who emigrated to Pennsylvania from the area of Kreuznah or Mainz, just north of the then Palatinate in the Rhine Valley.<sup>(1)</sup> They arrived in Philadelphia on the Ship Phoenix, from Rotterdam, on October 20, 1744, along with their family of which one is registered, Philip Fluck, the oldest son, besides that of Johannes Fluck.

After their arrival here there is a space of about 25 years between their arrival date and the date of the purchase of the tract of land in Rockhill Township. We can only speculate what happened in that period. One thing seems quite possible, that was that they had to work in the service of someone here for their Indenture, most of these immigrants were poor people and they indentured themselves in the service of someone willing to pay for their passage to Pennsylvania. The another thing is quite possible, that they moved on the tract they later bought, some time before the date of the deed, this also was a fairly common practice.

The records show that on December 2, 1769, Hannah Freame of Philadelphia, a large landowner in Bucks County, gave a deed for 92 acres and 57 perches of land to John (Flug) Fluck, bounded by the lands of Dietrich Welgar, Isaac Hunsberger, Henry Freed and the Freame Manor.

Johannes Fluck must have died in late 1774, as on February 24, 1775, Mary Fluck, his widow, and Philip Fluck his son, are the Executors of his Will as recorded on that day.

Johannes Fluck and his family affiliated themselves with the Tohickon Reformed Church. Of their nine children, it appears that five of them were born in Germany and four were born here, as these latter ones are found in the Church Records of that Church and Indian Creek, between 1745 and 1756. The son, Ludwig Fluck, was the first of this family to become a member of the Indian Creek congregation, we find his name on the 1768 Deacons' Collection List, the first authentic membership record of that congregation. Later he moved from that area to Richland Township, Bucks County, where he and his family became affiliated with the Springfield Reformed Church, in Springfield Township, Bucks County, located less than a mile northwest of the present village of Pleasant Valley.

PHILIP FLUCK, s. of Johannes and Anna Mary ( ) Fluck, of Rockhill Township, Bucks County, b. 1725; d. 1780. mar. BARBARA KERN, dau. of Frederick Kern, of Rockhill Township, Bucks County. b. January 25, 1726; d. May 19, 1806. bur. Tohickon Union Cemetery.

Philip Fluck was born in Germany and emigrated to Pennsylvania with his parents, on the Ship Phoenix from Rotterdam, arriving in Philadelphia, October 20, 1744. His name was written on the Ship's List by a clerk "Frederick(X) Flugh", mispelled by the clerk. He was age 19 years old when he arrived. Looking across the ship lists we find that Frederick Kern and his family arrived in 1747. In 1750 Philip Fluck and his wife brought their first child to the pastor of Tohickon Reformed Church for baptism, being also the church his father-in-law was a member.

Philip Fluck was active in the community and the church, he served for a time as Elder of the Tohickon Reformed Church. His name appears as the collector of funds for the support of the church and the financial records of the years 1768, 1769, and 1770, showing that Pastor J. Christopher Gobrecht received some or all of his salary from the hands of Philip Fluck.

He and his family lived in Hilltown Township, was a farmer, must have self educated himself to a reasonable education for the time, a man esteemed by his neighbors and fellow church members. He and his wife had eleven known children. He died nine years after his father Johannes, and just ten years before his youngest surviving son, Philip.

His Will was probated in Bucks County in the year 1780 and provided that his son, Christian, might buy the farm in Hilltown Township, after the youngest minor child came of age. Elizabeth came "of age" on November 24, 1786 and in 1787 the six children signed a release on the farm in favor of Christian Fluck.

Of the eleven children only seven are mentioned in the Will, therefore, four preceded the father in death, they were Christopher, John Adam, the first Catharine, and John Adam the second. The other seven reached maturity, were married and had families of their own.

In the will of Philip Fluck, probated in 1780, there is a provision, "that when the youngest child (Elizabeth) became of age (21 years) that his son Christian shall have the plantation in Hilltown Township, after paying his other children, viz., John, Ludwick, Casper, Frederick, Philip and Elizabeth what would be judged and allowed to be just." So the heirs appointed John Heany, Ludwick Benner and Henry Eckel to adjudge the value of the plantation. They agreed on 900 Pounds and the heirs accepted the figure. On May 28, 1787, when Elizabeth had reached her maturity, and more, a deed was drawn and executed by which the title of the farm went to Christian Fluck and was signed by the following -

John Fluck and Magdalena (Bedminster Township)
Ludwick Fluck and Barbara (Chester County)
Caspar Fluck (Weaver) and Catharine (Rockhill Township)
Frederick Fluck and Catharine (Hilltown Township)
Philip Fluck (Weaver) (Hilltown Township)
Abraham Paul and Elizabeth (Chester County)

Of the 900 Pounds that Christian Fluck had to pay to his brothers and sisters, he paid 771 Pounds, 11 shillings and 7 pence, or all except his own share.

LUDWIG<sup>2</sup>Fluck, s. of Johannes and Anna Mary ( ) Fluck, of Rockhill Township, Bucks County, b. C. 1732; d. Oct. 29, 1791, mar. ANNA BARBARA RUHL, dau. of Peter Ruhl, of Rockhill Township, Bucks County, Penna.(2) b. May 11, 1740;d. Dec.11, 1808., bur. Pleasant Hill Union Cemetery, Springfield Township, Bucks County.

Ludwig Fluck was born in Germany and when he was about twelve years old his family left their home located in either Kreuznach or Mainz, in the Rhine Valley, and emigrated to Pennsylvania arriving in 1744. His parents later located in Rockhill Township, and while living there he met and married Barbara Ruhl, whose family was living on the farm presently owned and occupied by Paul Bishop, just northeast of the present Telford Borough line, in Rockhill and adjoining Hilltown Township.

While living in Rockhill Township they were members of the Reformed Church at Indian Creek.

(2) Bucks County, Deedbook, No. 26, p. 600

After their marriage they must have lived in Rockhill Township for about 15 years or more, when they purchased a farm in Richland Township and moved on it and then affiliated themselves with the Springfield, Reformed Church in Springfield Township, Bucks County.

On August 10, 1775 they were still living in Rockhill Township as we see that he was on the Rolls of the Rockhill Township Militia Company under Captain Andrew Kichline, Commander. Later that year he is on the Roll of the Associated Company of Richland Township, Bucks County, dated October 9, 1775 and listed as a Private in this Company.

Thus he and his family moved to Richland Township during the Summer of 1775 from Rockhill Township. It must have been around this time that he purchased his Richland Township farm, as in the Assessment of 1783 he is assessed for 167 acres, 3 horses, 6 cattle and 6 sheep. Showing he had a fair sized and well stocked farm. It was on this farm that he lived for the balance of his life. Beside farming he was a Cooper by trade.

By his Will it can be seen that he was ill at the time he made it on October 10, 1791. He willed to her eight acres on which to build a house and stable, to live after the sixth year. His wife, Barbara, was devised the house and land, stock and personal estate for a period of six years, with the request that she "keep the children together for these six years". The Will was proved November 20, 1791, he having died in the interim. She died 17 years later as is recorded by Rev. Jacob Senn in the Tohickon Church Record for Burials, "Dec. 13, 1808, Ludwig Fluck's Widow, Springfield". His wife Barbara, his son John Fluck and his son-in-law, George Smith were appointed Executors of the Estate.

The Will of Ludwig Fluck is of interest here, therefore a copy of it follows.

There is interest here also in the Will of the son-in-law, George S Smith, of Haycock Township, found in Bucks County Willbook No.10, p. 904. Appointed Balser Stever and Jesse Armstrong his Executors. Will proved August 22, 1831. Signed by George Smith Seal.

Peter Ruhl, the father of Barbara (Ruhl) Fluck, wife of Ludwick Fluck, was one of the Founders of the Reformed Church at Indian Creek. Evidence of the activity of the parents in the Reformed Church life of this congregation and that of the Tohickon Reformed Congregation is evident in the marriages of their children mostly all within the families of these two congregations , Peter Ruhl's in the Indian Creek congregation and Johannes Fluck's in the Tohickon congregation.

John Fluck, b.	1778

It appears that Ludwig's wife, Anna Margaret died soon after the birth of the last child above, as she is not mentioned in the deed executed for the transfer of the farm of Philip Fluck, Sr., to his son Christian Fluck. His second wife is believed to have been, Barbara Paul, and her brother Abraham Paul, married Elizabeth Fluck, the youngest sister of Ludwig Fluck. They were living in Vincent Township, Chester County.

(John) FREDERICK<sup>3</sup> FLUCK , s. of Philip and Barbara (Kern) Fluck, of Hilltown Township, Bucks County, Pa., b. Feb. 11, 1761; d. Nov. 2, 1832, mar. between 1785 and 1787, CATHARINE(LEIDY) HARTZELL, widow of Michael Hartzell, dau. of Jacob and Barbara (Nyce) Leidy, b. Mar. 10, 1750; d. Oct. 20, 1832, bur. Ind. Crk Ref. Cem.

Frederick Fluck grew up on his father's farm in Hilltown Township, and since four of his brothers were already married with families of their own at the time of the death of his father, apparently he aided in operating the farm, and seems as though he may have helped his brother Christian when he took over after the death of the father. By May of 1787, when the brothers and sister released the farm to Christian, in accord with his father's Will, he had already married Catharine (Leidy) Hartzell , the widow of Michael Hartzell who had a farm of 400 acres in Hilltown Township which he was allotted in his father, George Heinrich Hartzell's Will, who had died the Spring of 1784, and Michael Hartzell died that Fall of 1784.

Frederick Fluck and his family lived in a log house located on what is now Schoolhouse Road, in (1961) owned by Warren Bishop, not far from what was the Pennsville Schoolhouse, also known as Fluck's Schoolhouse, located on corner of SchoolhouseRoad and Bethlehem Pike, Route 309 in Hilltown Township. The log house was just behind the present dwelling house of Warren Bishop. Frederick Fluck must have possessed a very great acreage of land, and made at least six purchases and the same number of transfers. He purchased some of the land from Samuel Sellers, a blacksmith, who then bought four acres along the Bethlehem Pike at the Branch Creek. He and his son Thomas Sellers became the founders of the town of Sellersville, by establishing an Inn later called Seller's Tavern, on this ground.

The records of the Reformed Church at Indian Creek bear considerable evidence that Frederick Fluck took a very active part in the work of that congregation. He was a Trustee of the congregation during the 1820s, charged with a "proprietor's responsibility" of the Church property and finances of the congregation. When we note his contributions to the support of the church, they compare very favorably with those of others of similar means. Frederick Fluck's parents were members of the Tohickon Reformed Church, after his marriage to Catharine (Leidy) Hartzell he transferred his membership to Indian Creek and the Fluck Families in this congregation are his descendants. His uncle, Ludwig Fluck, had been a member there prior to 1768 and up to the time he moved to a farm in Richland Township, Bucks County during 1775, thus, Ludwig was the first of the Flucks to hold membership in the congregation at Indian Creek.

Through intermarriages there has been a close relationship of the Fluck family and the Leidy family, as we have already shown three of Philip Fluck's sons married Leidy girls, up to that time, and two more in the next generation. Barbara the wife of Rev. Casper Wack was the sister of Catharine.

Catherine Leidy in her marriage with Michael Hartzell had two sons and five daughters. In her marriage with Frederick Fluck they had one son.

The only children known at this time of this couple are those in the baptismal record of Tohickon Reformed Church.

Richlandtown Union Cemetery, Richlandtown, Pa.

He was born in Rockhill Township while his parents lived there, and grew up in Richland Township, near the Haycock Township line, where at the time of his death he owned land in both townships, the homestead farm being in a generally northeasterly direction from Richlandtown.

Peter Ruhl, Sr., the father of Anna Barbara Ruhl, Ludwig's mother, died in Rockhill Township about 1762. In time the Heirs sold the farm, which was located on the north side of present Telford Borough, and it was some time after that that Peter Ruhl, Jr bought a tract in Richland Township and moved there. In the year 1775 Ludwig Fluck, Sr., did the same and followed his brother-in-law, also purchasing a farm in Richland Township.

The Will of Ludwig Ruhl Fluck is of interest here therefore we will reprint it in brief -

He was born in Hilltown Township, where his parents lived and was baptized by the Rev. John Wilhelm Ingold on Oct. 26, 1788 at the Reformed Church at Indian Creek.

They lived in Hilltown Township, they lived in the log house located on what is now Schoolhouse Road, only one city block northeast of the Bethlehem Pike, now Hwy. Route 309, located across the road from his father's residence. This farm was owned and occupied at the turn of this century by Jonas A. Fluck, presently by A.J. Pennypacker, and antique dealer.

I was told, by Howard W. Fluck, who furnished this author with most of the information for this branch of the family, that a well was located on that premises and near it stood the log house, signs of the house have long since disappeared, but here is where John and Sophia Fluck lived, they were prosperous farmers and had a good sized family, of six children.

He was born on his father's farm in Hilltown Township and lived there his entire life. The farm and buildings are located at the intersection of present Schoolhouse Road and Keystone Drive in Hilltown Township, south of Sellersville. He and his wife started housekeeping in the house that is now occupied by their great-grandson, John W. Fluck. Like the men of his day, he was a hard working farmer and became prosperous and a leading citizen in his community and Church. He served on the Church Consistory of the Reformed Church at Indian Creek in the years 1863-64.

Coming to the age of retirement, he retired from active farming in the spring of 1881, and deeded the farm over to his son, John Andrew Fluck, on April 28, 1881 for a consideration of $4700. He was age 74 years at the time of his death, and his wife Elvira survived him by five years. They are buried aside of the parents, John and Sophia Fluck. The balance of his estate at the time of his death was $5,930.75.

Later she moved into the home that is now the Childrens' Home on the Doylestown Road, south of Quakertown, where she lived until her death. In her late years, she was a bit stooped in posture, a woman of a kindly disposition and motherly concern for her family. One could see she had been a hard working woman through her life.

Milton Fluck grew up in the Branch Valley, had a local school education, and early in adult life purchased a good sized farm in Salford Township in that valley, Barndt Road of today passes the homestead and buildings. In addition to his farm operation he was a dealer in Hay and for many years hauled Hay to Philadelphia up until the end of the first decade of this century. He was a tall slender man of considerable strength, a man with an outgoing personality. He lived on this farm, along the ridge south of Ingram's Hill throughout his adult life.

This author has many pleasant memories from visits to that farm, his son Frank being the same age and acquaintances in the Sunday School at Indian Creek. One of those memories is how in late summer we would go into the ice-house, which was located at the rear of the house, and bring out those cold and delicious watermelons, which for young boys, was real living. Then also the swimming down in the Branch Creek, Then after a most enjoyable afternoon, walk back home to Telford, which seemed to take no effort at all.

Aaron Fluck and his family lived on the east side of Branch Creek in West Rockhill Township. On the main part of this farm today is the housing development called "Hidden Valley". He was Reformed and held membership at Indian Creek and his wife Sarah, was Lutheran, so the family must have associated with the Indianfield Lutheran Church, further reason being that Rev. George Roeller was pastor of that church and he was Sarah's grandfather, her mother being Juliana Roeller. I mention this because Milton Fluck and his wife were members of the Reformed Church at Indian Creek. His brothers and sisters were all Lutheran, and his brother Frank educated and ordained into the Gospel Ministry in the Lutheran Church.

Frank Fluck was born in West Rockhill Township on his father's farm just south of the Branch Creek, where the County Line Road crosses that creek. Was educated in the local schools, graduated from Kutztown Normal School, then entered Mount Airy Theological Seminary in Philadelphia where he graduated and was ordained in the year 1880. Received a call from the Church of the Advent in Philadelphia the same year, which he accepted and this was the only parish he served throughout his pastorate, serving there until 1918 when he retired.

He had acquired the small farm in Salford Township that had been owned by his father, along the County Line Road, just west of Ingram's Hill. Here he spent his retirement. During the latter years of his pastorate he had been coming to this farm during the summer vacation season. After his death his daughter and son-in-law acquired the farm and where she and her husband spent vacations and later spent their retirement years there.

ELIZABETH BENNER, dau. of Jonathan and Catharine (Barndt) Benner of Salford Township, Montgomery County, Pa., b. Aug. 8, 1870; d. Oct. 23, 1919. Bur. Indianfield Lutheran Cem.

He was born and grew up on the farms of his parents and lived in that Branch Valley area all his life. After his marriage they lived on what had been his father's farm, owned and occupied by Mrs. Elsie Fluck Koehler (1963), his niece, where the first of their children were born. He then acquired the larger farm in West Rockhill Township, a short distance east, along the Branch Creek, where he and his wife were to live for the balance of their life.

He was a successful farmer and for many years, at the time of the turn of this century, he was a dealer in horses, then so commonly called a "horse jockey" among his Pennsylvania German farmer friends. He had built quite a reputation for the fine grade of horses that he purchased through other parts of Pennsylvania and the Mid-West, and sold in Telford and vicinity at Public Auction, then called "Horse Sales". He was generally stated at that time that he usually had the finest grade of farm horses sold in the area. He was in business during the period of change from the horse to the farm tractor, which replaced the horse. He held sales for horses until the early years of the second decade of this century, just before World War I, when the growing use of tractors and automobiles decreased the need for horses, so drastically that he discontinued business at that time and lived in retirement yet operating his farm. Like so many other farmers, he had the aid of his sons until they went on their own. This farm today is the "Happy Hill Farm" owned and occupied by Robert E. Thompson and family.
